MEET IKE & MAMIE AGAIN … FOR THE FIRST TIME

Dawn Hammatt, Director of the Eisenhower Presidential Library, Museum, and Boyhood Home

In honor of President's Day, join us for a virtual tour of the Eisenhower Presidential Library, Museum, and Boyhood Home. The site is currently closed due to the pandemic, so this will be a great opportunity to explore the campus and some all-new exhibits from the comfort of your home.

The Eisenhower Presidential Library (one of 14 Presidential Libraries operated by the National Archives and Records Administration) is home to a world-class research facility that caters to scholars and history enthusiasts from around the world. Located in Eisenhower's hometown of Abilene, Kansas, the vast holdings of the Library consist of approximately:

- 26 million pages of historical records and papers
- 335,000 photographs
- 768,000 feet of original motion picture film
- 70,000 artifacts

Dawn Hammatt is the director of the Eisenhower Presidential Library, Museum, and Boyhood Home in Abilene, Kansas. She's been in her current role since 2016. Prior to her career with NARA, she managed the design and fabrication of a new 22,000-square-foot exhibition at the Mississippi Arts and Entertainment Experience. Working in the museum field her entire career predominantly in New Orleans for local, state, and private organizations, Dawn has overseen disaster recovery efforts following two natural disasters. Her work, chiefly in collections management and administration, has always focused on safety and security of the holdings.
