ARMA NOVA sponsor Access is pleased to be hosting the ARMA NOVA chapter for our June meeting. Attendees who join this webinar will have a chance to hear from chapter president, Dan Beard, at the beginning of the meeting. Opening remarks will be followed by a presentation from John Isaza, Esq., Vice President of Information Governance at Access on Cybersecurity and Privacy Risks When Working Remotely.

Many businesses moved to working remotely in 2020 and a majority are developing long-term plans to continue that practice. In a recent survey from The Kung Group, 60% of CEOs report that they are considering reducing or downsizing office space. For records professionals this means evaluating how we manage information in office environments versus work-from-home environments. In this webinar, John Isaza, practicing attorney and information governance expert, will examine the legal foundation for security mandates, risks of working remotely and recommended best practices.
